Having owned two Challengers myself... I'd sell my left nut for one of those!!! :-)

David.

Luuuuuuuuuv the Camaro. Used to drive a '76, and always lusted for a '67 thru '69.

Actually, I always thought the '70-'71 was the most beautiful. Odd, but beautiful.

if you find someone to give you that kind of money for your left one...let em know they can have both of mine for a bit less than twice the price. i've discovered that after nearly 33 years of bliss i really don't need them.

lemmie know cuz i've seen the vids of older guys and what happens to those hangers.

Cool stuff Aaron! My day job is working in my families auto dealerships. We've been in the business for a little over forty years. My main beef with concept cars is that the factories go great expense to create them, but then end up manufacturing mostly ugly crap that has very little of the excitement the concept cars exude. It's been changing slowly over the last few years though and finally the "Big Three" are getting a clue. I hope is isn't too little, too late. I love the retro muscle car looks that have been coming out. The new Mustang is beautiful. The Dodge Charger is cool looking too.

What a coincidence! I'd sell your left nut for one of those too!

I have to say, I'm not a big fan of Ford in general, but that new T-bird is something else. And Dodge has really ramped up the coolness factor. Sure glad we aren't stuck with those lousy K-Cars like in the 80's (blecht!) these days. It's nice to hear that you are seeing even more changes for the better inside the industry.
