That woman doesn't understand that if she had played the age card, "Oh, I'm so tired, I think I'm going to faint (right here in your lobby)..." she could have gotten the manager's attention right away, rather than a trip to the pokey.

The key in situations like this is to keep your eye on what you want, and figure out how to make the other guy want to give it to you. Of course, she may have just been looking for something crazy to do, and she certainly found that.

Don, what's your beef with Steiny?

Or a quick trip to the ER...

But you are right, by being dignified and well-mannered she actually got poorer service.

None. I just picked them out of a hat. All companies fall down on customer service at times. and they did for me, but it was years ago. There's lots of other candidates....

Yeah, Mona, baby. A woman after my own heart. Very funny story. Holy Crap, she's now with Verizon? Their service sucks in my experience. Better get the hammer ready again.
