JohnI've got 4 x of the A15AS' here. They work nicely. Remember to plug them into the rear of the preamp rather than between the mic and the cable.

music or songs as part of the design for a show, I spend hours trying to track down someone who will talk to me about getting rights.

At some point, I usually give up and operate under the "it's easier to ask forgiveness than to get permission" credo....

Occasionally, it works out that I can use songs by people I know, which makes the whole process a hell of a lot easier.

We pay royalties on the play or musical. It's getting permission to use the music that gets frustrating. We're a small volunteer non-profit group, so there's no real money to be made, so nobody wants to screw with setting anything up.

Now I just have to import them into MicroLogic and figure out how to map things to the Kurz piano module, and I'm golden.

Royalties are a grey area. Every time I want to use pre-recorded Comp USA is running a sale tomorrow on this computer.

$200 seems pretty cheap if it'll do the job.
I'd want to up the ram, add a drive, disable/
delete crazy amounts of trial software.
The onboard graphics chip may be a limiting factor but for one monitor it seems like it'll do.
After reading the specs tell me if you think it's worth it.

Here's the specs:

Modifications I expect:
I'm thinking the C drive may need a new install of OS to clean it up.
Isn't that next to impossible with a proprietary Compaq?=20
