I checked the paper and it's not happening here, that's for sure.

Where...when? I need to get out of town or a vacation.

I can get there Friday by flying out of Albuquerque for only $289.00.
Where's a good place to stay around there?

This is what pisses me off about online fares. I look at one, then check a different one, then go back to the first one and it has increased by $25.00. So much for the $289.00 round trip. Not that it's really any big deal, but it certainly is aggravating.

Hmmmm.....I'm finding round trip travel packages for that weekend that fly from Farmington NM (about an hour from here) to John Wayne Airport and include 3 nights in a hotel for as low as $497.00 Not the greatest of hotels (Ramada Inn Ltd.) but not the worst either and I could always upgrade to a backroom suite at the Cheetah Club for just a little more. That's very cheap considering that it's 3 1/2 hours to drive each way from here to Albuquerque.

The old disneyland Hotel is fun (everything Mickey -- those white glove hands holding up the towels for you...). Pricey, though, but amusing. Best if you have a spare five-year-old in tow.

You guys keep talking up this get-together I may actually show up myself...

I actually haven't figured that out yet. Want to split the cost of a room?
I'm probably going to drive over from Tucson, so I'll have transportation.
Wonder what parking is like though...

I'm trying to figure out how best to manage the travel situation. I may want to fly from Farmington into LAX so I don't have to drive to Albuquerque and get a room a bit more central in LA. I need to drive up to Sherman Oaks on Friday AM and visit with Tony Merrill at SPA.

The idea of cheap tickets, sharing a room and letting you chauffeur me around sounds pretty appealing though. I hate driving in LA.

There are a lot of places to stay around Disney/ the convention center. If your going to spend big money, stay at the Hilton, that's where all the after parties will be. In the lobby! Around the corner on Harbor Blvd. if you head south away from Disney there are places for about $50.00 up.

One of the last times I went, I stayed at a place call some thing like, "magic Lamp motel". It was cheap, clean and was only a three or four block walk to the convention center. I think I payed less than $50.00 a night. It was known to be low budget, but it was clean. It was on Katella Ave. right across from Disney and just west of the convention center. It may no longer be there, they were renovating that whole area last I heard.

Check here:

http://www.roomsaver.com/search_display.php?state=CA&city_id=30920

They have convention parking at Disney some times. I've even Parked just west on Katella just west of the convention center, where the subdivisions start. On the same side of the street. It's a little bit of a walk, but it's free;) There is also short term guest parking at the Hilton, if you want to go to the after parties for a bit.

Good luck guys. I wish I was going.

Hey DeeJ! Read my last post. FYI, LAX is a good hour drive in good traffic from the convention center. It would cost you upwards of $50.00 to get a ride from LAX one way. If you go to LAX, the cheapest car rental is Thrifty. It's around a hundred bucks to rent a compact for a week. Of course, YMMV!

John Wayne is a lot closer. You might want to check with AmericaWest and SouthWest, if you flying out of Albuquerque . Long Beach is also closer, but still a good drive from Anaheim.

Man, it sounds fun--unfortunately I have to go to the east coast on the 18th, then head to Mesa, AZ on the 24th for a steel guitar show.

Y'all have fun....:)
