As some of you may remember, I purchased a build your own clone dot com DIY guitar effect pedal on a whim of sorts a short while back. Here's where the project lies at this point: So far, I am impressed with most aspects and a little put out at others with the phase pedal kit... more to come.....

I'm going to finish it up hopefully during the next week and I'll finalize my thoughts on tone and options and overall project evaluation.

For those not sure, the circuit layout is clean (pic 1) and yes... I use my toaster oven to bake the paint (pic 2) :)
