

---

Subject: I think I just wet myself.....

Posted by Paul Braun on Tue, 22 May 2007 03:44:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Dunno how many of you watch "Family Guy," but I think I just heard one of the funniest lines in television history.

Sunday's episode had Death granting Peter his wish to go back to when he was 18 for one day.

They run into an 18-year-old, smokin' hot Lois at the pool. Brian, who has the hots for Lois anyway, utters the line (now remember, we're in 1984) "Can I wham my oingo boingo into your velvet underground?"

McFarlane is a genius.

pab

---

---

Subject: Re: I think I just wet myself.....

Posted by [wireline\[1\]](#) on Tue, 22 May 2007 12:28:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

That was funny...I thought the funniest line was "son of a bitch!"...coming from a dog - funny...coming from a dog smarter than most humans - hilarious....

I'm glad they brought this one back...now if the rumors are true, that "Futurama" is being made again, I can die happy...

Strangely enough, someone asked me the other day why they don't have out-takes and blooper reels from animated shows - and they were serious -

Paul Braun <cygnus_nospam@ctgonline.org> wrote:

>Dunno how many of you watch "Family Guy," but I think I just heard >one of the funniest lines in television history.

>

>Sunday's episode had Death granting Peter his wish to go back to when >he was 18 for one day.

>

>They run into an 18-year-old, smokin' hot Lois at the pool. Brian, >who has the hots for Lois anyway, utters the line (now remember, we're >in 1984) "Can I wham my oingo boingo into your velvet underground?"

>

>McFarlane is a genius.

>

>pab

---

Subject: Re: I think I just wet myself.....

Posted by Paul Braun on Tue, 22 May 2007 22:57:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On 22 May 2007 22:28:14 +1000, "wireline"

<wirelinestudio@sbcglobal.net> wrote:

>
>That was funny...I thought the funniest line was "son of a bitch!"...coming >from a dog - funny...coming from a dog smarter than most humans - hilarious....
>
>I'm glad they brought this one back...now if the rumors are true, that "Futurama" >is being made again, I can die happy...
>
>Strangely enough, someone asked me the other day why they don't have out-takes >and blooper reels from animated shows - and they were serious -
>

That's the thing I love about FG, aside from the inside jokes and insane pop-culture references. The smartest, most with-it member of the family is an alcoholic dog named Brian. And yes, Brian saying "son of a bitch" was also hilarious.

I agree. I've seen the existing Futuramas a dozen times each - it's time for some fresh material.

pab

---