Hi everyone,

I wanted to pick some members brains here. I have been hearing a lot of good things about these 4 channel snakes that are great for recording live bands on stage remotely. I have a mobile recording system I have just recently set up and I am looking for a good quality snake that is not very heavy. And many people in local stores have recommended this product.

The good news is this company is based in the USA and its a USA made product. Not to discredit overseas products, but it's nice to support USA companies.

What do you all think of it?

Regards,

Johnny
