

---

Subject: Re: Nikon and the end of film.

Posted by Martin Harrington on Sun, 15 Jan 2006 06:35:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I saw a similar story, but they, (Nikon), said they were still going to manufacture the high end cameras.

--

Martin Harrington

www.lendaneer-sound.com

"cujo" <chris@nospamapplemanstudio.com> wrote in message news:43c9e88b$1@linux...

>

> Ugg,

> I heard a little stiry on NPR the other day on how Nikon would be phasing
> out

> film cameras buy the end of the year, made me think how close that is to > the audio world.

> One photographer in the story compared digtial to writing a letterusing a > ball point pen and film would be like using a fountain pen. I kind of liek > the comparison. Actually he was saying how digital was great for many > uses,

> getting news photos in to print ASAP an what not, but that film was still > better for more artistic ventures.

>

> I looked on the NPR site but could not find the story.

>

---

---

Subject: OT: Nikon and the end of film.

Posted by cujo on Sun, 15 Jan 2006 07:15:39 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Ugg,

I heard a little stiry on NPR the other day on how Nikon would be phasing
out

film cameras buy the end of the year, made me think how close that is to
the audio world.

One photographer in the story compared digtial to writing a letterusing a ball point pen and film would be like using a fountain pen. I kind of liek
the comparison. Actually he was saying how digital was great for many uses, getting news photos in to print ASAP an what not, but that film was still better for more artistic ventures.

I looked on the NPR site but could not find the story.

---

---

Subject: Re: Nikon and the end of film.
Posted by JB on Mon, 16 Jan 2006 14:29:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

They plan to continue their flagship F6 and their manual focus FM10 (which is popular as a student model).

The up side is that the used film camera market is flooded with those who have switched to digital, so it won't be too hard to get a good, cheap Nikon film camera at least for the time being.

"Martin Harrington" <lendan@bigpond.net.au> wrote in message news:43c9edca$1@linux...

>I saw a similar story, but they, (Nikon), said they were still going to >manufacture the high end cameras.

> --

> Martin Harrington

> www.lendaneer-sound.com

>

> "cujo" <chris@nospamapplemanstudio.com> wrote in message

> news:43c9e88b$1@linux...

>>

>> Ugg,

>> I heard a little story on NPR the other day on how Nikon would be phasing
>> out

>> film cameras by the end of the year, made me think how close that is to
>> the audio world.

>> One photographer in the story compared digital to writing a letter using a >> ball point pen and film would be like using a fountain pen. I kind of >> like >> the comparison. Actually he was saying how digital was great for many

>> uses,

>> getting news photos in to print ASAP and what not, but that film was still >> better for more artistic ventures.

>>

>> I looked on the NPR site but could not find the story.

>>

>

>

---

Subject: Re: OT: Nikon and the end of film.
Posted by EK Sound on Mon, 16 Jan 2006 17:02:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Sad, but great for hobby photog's like myself... buying up great medium format equipment CHEAP! :-)

David.

cujo wrote:

> Ugg,

> I heard a little story on NPR the other day on how Nikon would be phasing
> out

> film cameras by the end of the year, made me think how close that is to
> the audio world.

> One photographer in the story compared digital to writing a letter using a > ball point pen and film would be like using a fountain pen. I kind of like > the comparison. Actually he was saying how digital was great for many uses, > getting news photos in to print ASAP and what not, but that film was still > better for more artistic ventures.

>

> I looked on the NPR site but could not find the story.

>

---