Hi Everyone,

I've been looking into log-in problems that some people have been having. I'm able to reproduce the problem on Chrome, but Firefox and IE seems to work fine.

I can't find anything about this in the FudForums site or the forum logs, so i don't have much to go on right now.

For now, we may just have to avoid Chrome until we can sort this out.

All the best,

Mike

I have used FF and got some loginproblems, but know i can read the Forum.

If you go on forumshome, or the parispic in header, you will be redirected to Kerrys webpage !

I know about the header.

FudForum uses a meta-language to define parts of the page in a template. It then compiles the pages from that template, spitting the same code into a million places, making it impossible to manually edit it.

I could recompile the theme, but I really don't know how the templating system, works, and I don't have a free day to fix it if I break it.

It's not a simple case of finding the right file and editing it, unfortunately.

I'm sure it will get fixed at some point.

All the best,

Mike

Hi Kerry,
welcome back .
Can you give me the link to pariswiki, the link in header d'ont works ?
Can you tell me, in which folder the "untiled Project" is located ?

THX
Dan
