Subject: Still using IE? Read this Posted by Jamie K on Wed, 17 Dec 2008 17:22:48 GMT

From: http://www.denverpost.com/nationworld/ci_11252148
"The "zero-day" vulnerability, which came to light last week, allows criminals to take over victims' machines simply by steering them to infected Web sites; users don't have to download anything for their computers to get infected, which makes the flaw in Internet Explorer's programming code so dangerous."

You can wait for the MS fix or make the jump and get Firefox:

http://www.mozilla.com/en-US/

Firefox is working well here. I run it on a Mac and currently prefer it to IE and Safari.

Cheers,
  -Jamie
  www.JamieKrutz.com