
Subject: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara"to Windows

Posted by [John \[1\]](#) on Fri, 09 Feb 2007 13:17:36 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

http://www.computerworld.com/action/article.do?command=viewArticleBasic&articleId=9010759&intsrc=hm_ts_head

Subject: Re: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara" to Windows

Posted by xpam_mark on Fri, 09 Feb 2007 13:21:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you read the last 2 or 3 lines, you'll note that his sayonara is to PC's, not Windows; despite the title of the article.

W. Mark Wilson

"John" <no@no.com> wrote in message news:45cc74d4$1@linux...
> http://www.computerworld.com/action/article.do?command=viewArticleBasic&articleId=9010759&intsrc=hm_ts_head

Subject: Re: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara"to Windows

Posted by [John \[1\]](#) on Fri, 09 Feb 2007 15:06:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Good point. Do you agree he appears to be totally straddling the fence on both XP and Mac OS ?

W. Mark Wilson wrote:

> If you read the last 2 or 3 lines, you'll note that his sayonara is to PC's, > not Windows; despite the title of the article.

>

> W. Mark Wilson

>

> "John" <no@no.com> wrote in message news:45cc74d4$1@linux...

>> http://www.computerworld.com/action/article.do?command=viewArticleBasic&articleId=9010759&intsrc=hm_ts_head

>

>

Subject: Re: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara"to

Windows

Posted by Jamie K on Fri, 09 Feb 2007 16:53:29 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

After living with it for a while, he chose OSX over Windows Vista. It will be interesting to see how many people move to OSX because of Vista.

He is running XP under OSX using Parallels in order to have access to any XP software he still uses, a nice option for someone migrating from XP. You don't have to throw away your old software and you can move to OSX native software over time, at your own pace.

But it looks like he's replaced most of his goto software with OSX apps, and just has a few programs he hasn't found replacements for yet.

Also, he is very picky about screen capture programs. For manuals I've written I just used the built-in OSX grab program.

Cheers,
-Jamie
www.JamieKruz.com

John wrote:

> Good point. Do you agree he appears to be totally straddling the fence
> on both XP and Mac OS ?

>

> W. Mark Wilson wrote:

>> If you read the last 2 or 3 lines, you'll note that his sayonara is to >> PC's, not Windows; despite the title of the article.

>>

>> W. Mark Wilson

>>

>> "John" <no@no.com> wrote in message news:45cc74d4\$1@linux...

>>> http://www.computerworld.com/action/article.do?command=viewArticleBasic&articleId=9010759&intsrc=hm_ts_head

>>

>>

>>

Subject: Re: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara"

Posted by Jamie K on Fri, 09 Feb 2007 18:44:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

True. I wouldn't choose XP as a boot OS but maybe Linux. It'd also be nice to have the option of running OSX on homebrew boxes. Still, the current situation is compelling enough to attract the guy who wrote the article, and probably some number of others who, for whatever reasons, aren't attracted to Vista and are looking for an alternative.

Cheers,
-Jamie
www.JamieKrutz.com

chuck duffy wrote:

> I'm all for the fence straddling. Why choose if you don't have to, and you > don't have to these days. Virtualization makes just about any combination > you want work just fine. Except of course that I can't choose XP as my base > operating system if I want to run osx. I'd love to do that, but as far as > I know I can't purchase osx and install it in a virtual machine.

>
> Chuck

>
> Jamie K <Meta@Dimensional.com> wrote:
>> After living with it for a while, he chose OSX over Windows Vista. It >> will be interesting to see how many people move to OSX because of Vista.
>>

>> He is running XP under OSX using Parallels in order to have access to >> any XP software he still uses, a nice option for someone migrating from
>
>> XP. You don't have to throw away your old software and you can move to >> OSX native software over time, at your own pace.

>>
>> But it looks like he's replaced most of his goto software with OSX apps,
>
>> and just has a few programs he hasn't found replacements for yet.

>>
>> Also, he is very picky about screen capture programs. For manuals I've >> written I just used the built-in OSX grab program.

>>
>> Cheers,
>> -Jamie
>> www.JamieKrutz.com

>>
>>
>> John wrote:

>>> Good point. Do you agree he appears to be totally straddling the fence
>
>>> on both XP and Mac OS ?

>>>
>>> W. Mark Wilson wrote:
>>>> If you read the last 2 or 3 lines, you'll note that his sayonara is to
>
>>>> PC's, not Windows; despite the title of the article.

>>>>
>>>> W. Mark Wilson
>>>>
>>>> "John" <no@no.com> wrote in message news:45cc74d4$1@linux...
>>>>> http://www.computerworld.com/action/article.do?command=viewArticleBasic&articleId=9010759&intsrc=hm_ts_head
>>>>
>>>>
>

Subject: Re: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara"
Posted by chuck duffy on Fri, 09 Feb 2007 19:06:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm all for the fence straddling. Why choose if you don't have to, and you don't have to these days. Virtualization makes just about any combination you want work just fine. Except of course that I can't choose XP as my base operating system if I want to run osx. I'd love to do that, but as far as I know I can't purchase osx and install it in a virtual machine.

Chuck

Jamie K <Meta@Dimensional.com> wrote:

>
>After living with it for a while, he chose OSX over Windows Vista. It >will be interesting to see how many people move to OSX because of Vista.
>
>He is running XP under OSX using Parallels in order to have access to >any XP software he still uses, a nice option for someone migrating from

>XP. You don't have to throw away your old software and you can move to >OSX native software over time, at your own pace.
>
>But it looks like he's replaced most of his goto software with OSX apps,

>and just has a few programs he hasn't found replacements for yet.
>
>Also, he is very picky about screen capture programs. For manuals I've >written I just used the built-in OSX grab program.
>
>Cheers,
> -Jamie
> www.JamieKrutz.com
>
>
>John wrote:
>> Good point. Do you agree he appears to be totally straddling the fence

>> on both XP and Mac OS ?

>>

>> W. Mark Wilson wrote:

>>> If you read the last 2 or 3 lines, you'll note that his sayonara is to

>>> PC's, not Windows; despite the title of the article.

>>>

>>> W. Mark Wilson

>>>

>>> "John" <no@no.com> wrote in message news:45cc74d4$1@linux...

>>>> http://www.computerworld.com/action/article.do?command=viewArticleBasic&articleId=9010759&intsrc=hm_ts_head

>

>>>

>>>

>>>

Subject: Re: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara"
Posted by chuck duffy on Fri, 09 Feb 2007 20:40:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Unfortunately running linux as my primary boot machine and virtualizing windows is not an option for me. I would do it in a heartbeat if it was, but as you know cubase needs direct access to the hardware. This setup would also not allow me to run osx, which I would like to do in the near future.

I think osx is a very compelling alternative to vista, in fact it's so compelling that i am starting to view it as vista is a lukewarm alternative to osx.

It is entirely plausible for me to run osx as my primary boot (it runs cubase fine) and run XP and linux as VMs.

Chuck

Jamie K <Meta@Dimensional.com> wrote:

>

>True. I wouldn't choose XP as a boot OS but maybe Linux. It'd also be >nice to have the option of running OSX on homebrew boxes. Still, the >current situation is compelling enough to attract the guy who wrote the >article, and probably some number of others who, for whatever reasons, >aren't attracted to Vista and are looking for an alternative.

>

>Cheers,

> -Jamie
> www.JamieKruz.com
>
>
>chuck duffy wrote:
>> I'm all for the fence straddling. Why choose if you don't have to, and you >> don't have to these days. Virtualization makes just about any combination >> you want work just fine. Except of course that I can't choose XP as my base >> operating system if I want to run osx. I'd love to do that, but as far as
>> I know I can't purchase osx and install it in a virtual machine.
>>
>> Chuck
>>
>> Jamie K <Meta@Dimensional.com> wrote:
>>> After living with it for a while, he chose OSX over Windows Vista. It >>> will be interesting to see how many people move to OSX because of Vista.

>>>
>>> He is running XP under OSX using Parallels in order to have access to >>> any XP software he still uses, a nice option for someone migrating from

>>
>>> XP. You don't have to throw away your old software and you can move to >>> OSX native software over time, at your own pace.

>>>
>>> But it looks like he's replaced most of his goto software with OSX apps,
>>
>>> and just has a few programs he hasn't found replacements for yet.
>>>
>>> Also, he is very picky about screen capture programs. For manuals I've >>> written I just used the built-in OSX grab program.

>>>
>>> Cheers,
>>> -Jamie
>>> www.JamieKruz.com
>>>
>>>
>>> John wrote:
>>>> Good point. Do you agree he appears to be totally straddling the fence
>>
>>>> on both XP and Mac OS ?
>>>>
>>>> W. Mark Wilson wrote:

>>>> If you read the last 2 or 3 lines, you'll note that his sayonara is to
>>
>>>> PC's, not Windows; despite the title of the article.
>>>>
>>>> W. Mark Wilson
>>>>
>>>> "John" <no@no.com> wrote in message news:45cc74d4$1@linux...
>>>>> http://www.computerworld.com/action/article.do?command=viewA rticleBasic&articleId=9010759&intsrc=hm_ts_head
>>>>
>>>>
>>

Subject: Re: After a three-month Macintosh trial, Scot Finnie says "sayonara" to Windows

Posted by Paul Braun on Sat, 10 Feb 2007 00:36:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Fri, 09 Feb 2007 09:53:29 -0700, Jamie K <Meta@Dimensional.com>
wrote:

>
>After living with it for a while, he chose OSX over Windows Vista. It >will be interesting to see how many people move to OSX because of Vista.
>
>He is running XP under OSX using Parallels in order to have access to >any XP software he still uses, a nice option for someone migrating from >XP. You don't have to throw away your old software and you can move to >OSX native software over time, at your own pace.
>
>But it looks like he's replaced most of his goto software with OSX apps, >and just has a few programs he hasn't found replacements for yet.
>
>Also, he is very picky about screen capture programs. For manuals I've >written I just used the built-in OSX grab program.
>

Since I got my MacBook Pro, Lucy, back in October, she's become my main computer for most daily tasks. I have the XP machine here for a few things yet, especially since I haven't found an OSX newsreader that works just like Agent, which I've been using for so long I can't imagine using anything else.

However, my main computer at home is a dual-1GHZ G4 that also serves as file server for the house, as well as iTunes jukebox.

I have XP loaded in Parallels on Lucy as well, in addition to an install of XP under BootCamp. I need the BC install because my DeLorme usb GPS puck has a significant amount of latency when running under parallels, but works just fine under BC.

However, between BC, Parallels and OSX, I have two fully-functional, stupid-fast laptops in one shiny package. I love my MBP. A lot. She goes with us every trip we take, allows me to work on the website I maintain while sitting upstairs with the wife, and works as a mobile darkroom with Photoshop.

I may get a copy of Logic Express and a firewire interface and try some recording on her as well.

I just like the way OSX pretty much figures out what it is you want to do, even if you're not quite sure, and then just does it for you.

pab
