Hi,

I realized that I don't have recent contact info for folks that I have known for the past decade or so. Can anyone hook me up?

Chuck

Although I'm treating the email database I collected as confidential and limited distribution (Mike has a copy too) so as not to increase anyone's spam exposure, I'm pretty sure the general consensus would be to make an exception for the Paris NG Community's actual founder

So if you like, and if I get no PM objections from anyone between now and the end of the weekend (I can't get at the doc until then anyway - I'm posting from my wife's iBook, the G5 is getting a new PSU at the moment), I'll assume there are no objections and forward it to you.

I have no issues, I think CD lost my e some time ago and I can't get past his spam attacker for some reason

Thanks for the reminder, I just emailed it off to Chuck now, he'll get it with his morning coffee.

[I could use a spam filter, I got four probably virus-laden e-cards and six pheromone spams this weekend. Oh well.]

If you're commercial I can't say enough great things about the amount of crap my Iron Port appliance catches. We have less than 1% of the spam we used to get.
