Has there have been a thread, or does anyone want to share pics of their studio with shots of their ensoniq paris rig?

I'm curious to see how people incorporated paris into their studio

When my studio becomes a studio and not just desks in the corner of an unfinished basement, I'll be happy to share. Right now, I ain't showing ANYBODY my little mess.

That's a great idea - I managed to break my digital camera, but I'll see what I can do over here.

I can do this - unfortunately, the studio is dead and gone, but will live again soon!

There are more at <http://mylescochran.com/studio.htm>

This was a studio I had in London - its reincarnation is underway in the southwest of France. You can see some of the progress here:

Now I have to get PARIS running (for the first time) on an XP machine...

A zillion questions to follow, no doubt...
