As I've and other have been making our way thru the new analog botique plugins, I'm even more resolved in stating that Paris FX are were stellar.

Paris's Eq (4 band) is very good for most applications. The Plate verb adn Chorus, Delays are right up with the best. The Gate is cool, and is the Comp..

With UAD's, USZR, Sonalkis, Waves new vintage plugs setting the new standards in plugins modeling, Paris's plugins after 10 years are still holding it's own with the best of them..

No arguments from me there... :)

LaMont--

i agree--

though i have received some criticism about the room reverb--

i'm an ancient user and don't have any plug-ins or revised

FX for the room rev.--

any suggestions?
thanks

All of the forementioned plugins will do a great job. I will add SIR (free)
impulse verb and my favorite Wizzo's

W2 http://www.m-audio.com/products/en_us/WizooWizooVerbW2-main.html .

Dale,
I like to do that too for a richer reverb. Just run both a room and a plate in two aux busses and mix them together. Don't get too loud with either and it will be sweet.
I also use a FreakQ in front of the plate to notch out some mids more often than not. It carves a whole for the vocal or sometimes=20 snare.

I never could get that one to run right on Paris. I don't remember exactly the deal, and it passed sound but as I recall it wouldn't save settings or make any changes to the settings.

dale--
i call up the room reverb (with some tweaking)
and then the plate reverb--
the plate is usually "Bill's TC"
that i think Bill Lorentz created(sp?)

hi, bill

then i usually have to roll off some high end
either pre or post

Were you guys able to get Room Machine flying in Paris? That was another one that was showing the same kind of problems.

Dale,
Paris Plate is mono in so post pan won't matter nor will it hurt. Paris Room is stereo in so that might help to maintain post pan settings. The key is to 'blend' the two to help sculpt the ambience around your source.
Use the best qualities of each. I like the plates longer decays much of the time but very softly. The room can get dense and flutter too much if you're not careful.
Just play with small amounts and mix them to enhance your source be it guitar, vocal, drums or whatever.

It's always a crap shoot.
Crap,
Tom

IMO, always thought the rooms suck bigtime... the Plates are great, though.... stick with the Plates & minimal early reflections, and expand the HF rolloff so that it's not too dark & you'll be a happy camper!

For rooms, go find another plugin.

I can't remember what wrapper I was using when I had Paris as a Primary DAW (and now I don't have any VST's loaded on the Paris machine), but yeah I had it working - Rod did too, apparently.

Damn, that's a good plugin... it's my favorite for drum rooms, and that's mainly what I use it on - I tend to use the Lexi Pantheon for most other reverbs, but for drums the RM844 is my go-to.

I'm a big Non-Linear fan. I like the plates, but the room's I'm finding I steer away from mostly. The Non-Linear is very handy, and I'd be interested to see what I can do combining it with a plate...

Cheers,
Kim.

Neil you are the free plug master!

Where was this in your "Here are a few of my favourite (free) things" post?
Not out yet?

Cheers,
Kim.

Well, that's not a free one, Kimmers... that's a link to the page where you can download a demo (which is a pretty decent demo, full-featured, just has dropouts; which is much better than the type that has limited features & you can't really tell what it can do).

Also, don't know if I'd include that one in my "favorite" plugins, regardless, because it's very CPU-expensive. I think that takes it off the list of "Favorites", but it's definitely very versatile & might be good for some sounds you're into.

Not free? OutRAGEous! ;o)

I run pretty much entirely free plugs these days. I can't be bothered updating any of the old ones I have, and between the Paris effects and freebies I find I can get almost anything done I need to...

....but then I'm a kinda "8 track tape wasn't that bad" kinda guy... ;o)

Cheers,
Kim.

neil--
thanks
this is what i suspected all along-- btw--
i'm adding an internal HD to my G4-- can i format it in OS 9.2.2
while i have OS 10.2 also on my mac?
