Kinda sparkly/dirty - I'd be interested in hearing the Pacifica on voice with a really smooth mic (like a -47 or something along those lines).

Not a good pre for bright mics, I would imagine.

When I saw DAV, I thought it was a different mic pre. I am considering doing pro audio sales again. This is one of the top mic pres I'm considering selling.

If you want a really good high end mic pre for under a grand , do a little research on this one. I think it's a buy! And of course, the first few of my Paris friends would get a super deal to get the ball rolling;)

Unfortunately I could not get the links to work. Thing is, none of these are really cheap, although the Dav is the cheapest of the 3.

So, since I can't hear the samples, which one sounds best?

they all sound very good, IMO, but the Pendulum is in a different league altogether.
