
Subject: Old rickenbacker lap steel clips

Posted by [Deej \[4\]](#) on Wed, 02 May 2007 04:35:10 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

OK DC,

You wanted to hear a bit of the dubs we were doing with that old Rickenbacker lap this so here 'tis. This was into my Lexicon Signature 284, output to the Lexicon 10" speaker cabinet mic'ed with an SM57 inside one of these.

<http://www.audiologyrooms.com/booths.html>

This thing sits in my CR and when the door is closed, you can crank a marshall stack to 11 and barely hear it outside. I found two of these down in Bloomfield NM that had been purchased by a friend at an auction. Got 'em both for next to nothing. Best studio iso booth I've ever (not) heard.
;o)

File Attachments

1) Ricky 2.JPG, downloaded 70 times

2) lap steel riffs.mp3, downloaded 49 times

Subject: Re: Old rickenbacker lap steel clips
Posted by Nei on Wed, 02 May 2007 16:10:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That's a pretty kewl tone you're getting out of that thing.

Very "Running on Empty"-ish.

Neil

"DJ" <www.aarrrrggghhh!!!.com> wrote:

>OK DC,

>

>You wanted to hear a bit of the dubs we were doing with that old

>Rickenbacker lap this so here 'tis. This was into my Lexicon Signature 284, >output to the Lexicon 10" speaker cabinet mic'ed with an SM57 inside one

of >these.

>

><http://www.audiologyrooms.com/booths.html>

>

>This thing sits in my CR and when the door is closed,you can crank a >marshall stack to 11 and barely hear it outside. I found two of these down >in Bloomfield NM that had been purchased by a friend at an auction. Got

'em

>both for next to nothing. Best studio iso booth I've ever (not) heard.

>;o)

>

>

>

>

Subject: Re: Old rickenbacker lap steel clips

Posted by DC on Wed, 02 May 2007 20:55:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Bitchin!

Great sounds. What fun. Now I need to find one of those...

heh

DC

"DJ" <www.aarrrrggghhh!!!.com> wrote:

>OK DC,

>

>You wanted to hear a bit of the dubs we were doing with that old

>Rickenbacker lap this so here 'tis. This was into my Lexicon Signature 284, >output to the Lexicon 10" speaker cabinet mic'ed with an SM57 inside one

of >these.
>
><http://www.audiologyrooms.com/booths.html>
>
>This thing sits in my CR and when the door is closed,you can crank a >marshall stack to 11 and barely hear it outside. I found two of these down >in Bloomfield NM that had been purchased by a friend at an auction. Got

'em
>both for next to nothing. Best studio iso booth I've ever (not) heard.
>;o)
>
>
>
>
